

Noah and the Ark

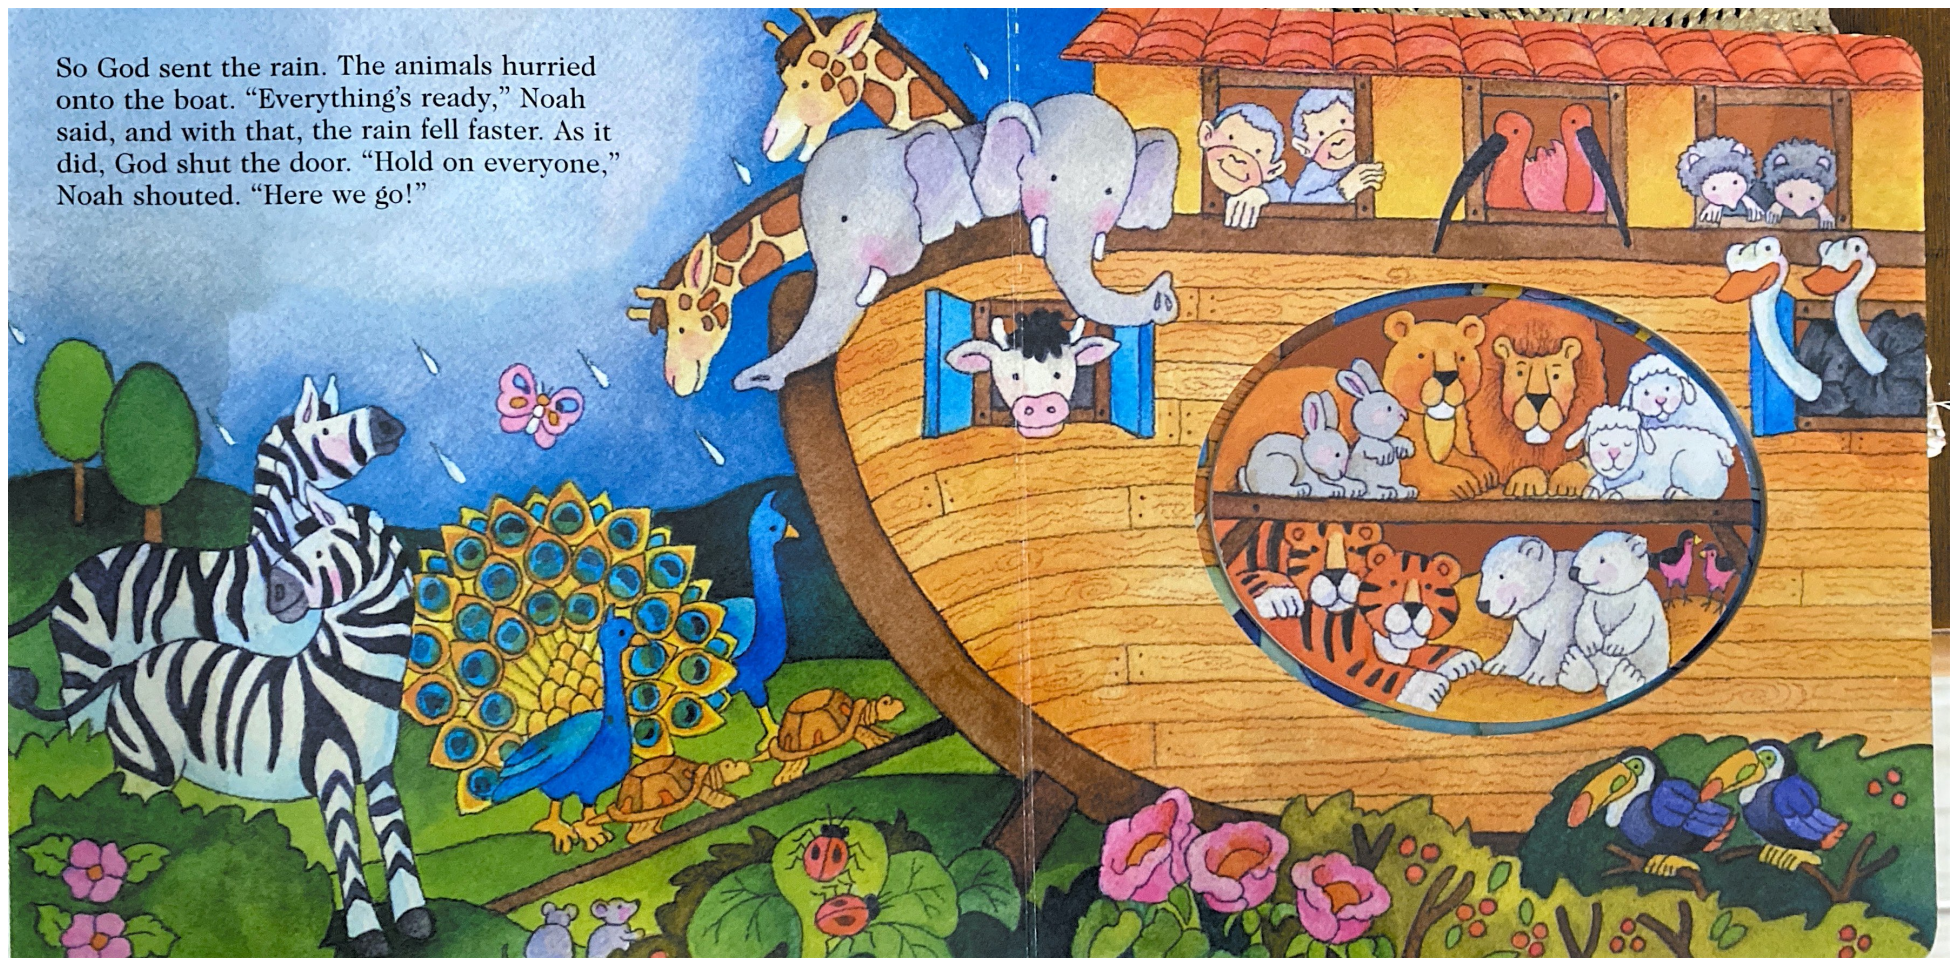

A Bible Spin-Me-Around® Book

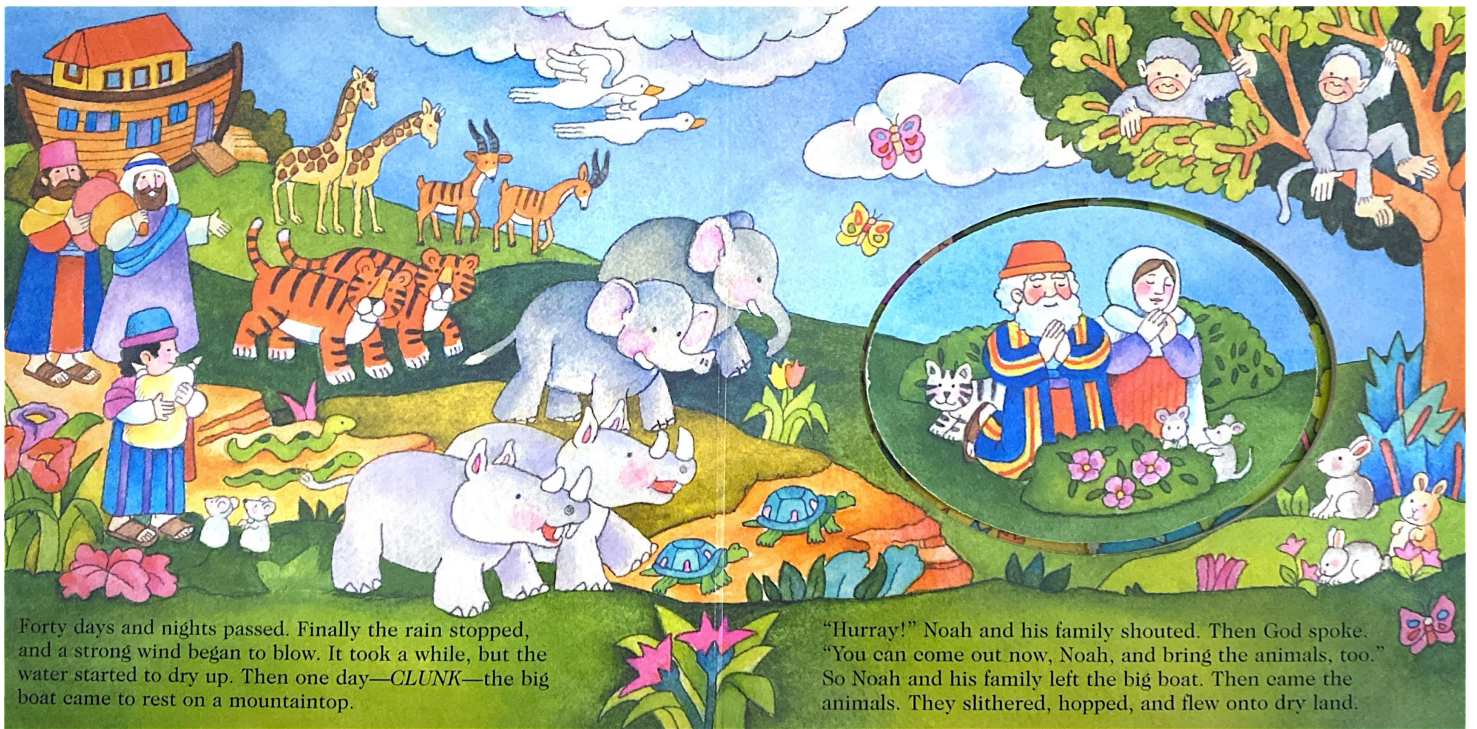

"I'm sending some rain," God told Noah.
"But you'll be safe. I promise. So build a big boat. Take the animals I send you on board.
Store up supplies." Noah listened, then he did as God said.

So God sent the rain. The animals hurried onto the boat. "Everything's ready," Noah said, and with that, the rain fell faster. As it did, God shut the door. "Hold on everyone," Noah shouted. "Here we go!"

Spish, splash. The big boat rocked up and down on the sea of rain. KABOOM—thunder roared and—ZAP—lightning flashed. But Noah and the animals were safe inside. Monkeys chattered, while cats took naps. All the while, the rain kept falling. The water kept rising, but Noah and his family were not afraid. They trusted God to keep his promise.

Forty days and nights passed. Finally the rain stopped, and a strong wind began to blow. It took a while, but the water started to dry up. Then one day—CLUNK—the big boat came to rest on a mountaintop.

“Hurray!” Noah and his family shouted. Then God spoke. “You can come out now, Noah, and bring the animals, too.” So Noah and his family left the big boat. Then came the animals. They slithered, hopped, and flew onto dry land.

Noah took a deep breath. He smelled the sweet air. Then he and his family knelt to pray. "Thank you, Lord," he said, "for keeping us safe." When he looked up again, there was a beautiful rainbow in the sky.

Then God spoke. "I put this rainbow in the sky, Noah. Let it be a sign to you that I will never cover the earth again with floodwaters. Go, Noah, take care of the land and the animals." So Noah and his family did just that.

$7.99 U.S.
Price higher in Canada

Noah and the Ark

A Bible Spin-Me-Around® Book

retold by Allia Zobel-Nolan
illustrated by Nan Brooks

When God tells Noah, "I'm sending rain;
build a boat," that's exactly what Noah does.
Children can join in the adventure by turning the spinners to create new scenes as they follow Noah, and the animals God sends him, through the big flood.

Published by Reader's Digest Children's Books

St. John The Baptist-Miramar, Florida

NOAH AND THE ARK
B00960

ISBN 0-7944-0525-8

9 780794 405250

5 0799

